COMPLETE NEW WATER SYSTEM IN FEW WEEKS

Work on the independent water system being established by the C. H. Musselman company at Biglerville to supply its own plant will be completed within the next several weeks, John A. Hauser, president of the concern, announced today.

The company has constructed a reservoir on company property and is running a line from there to the Willow Springs farm west of Biglerville from where water from springs will flow to the reservoir.

The water system, which is about 1/2 mile in length, is being established to provide the company with sufficient water for its operations. Since last year the company has been having difficulty periodically in obtaining water from the Biglerville water company and has been hauling additional water to meet its needs from the stream near town for months, Hauser said.

Last week the Biglerville water company curtailed the amount it would provide to the Musselman plant from 35,000 to 10,000 gallons a day.

Shortage of Water

Earl L. Schwalm, manager of the Gettysburg and Biglerville water companies, said that the Biglerville system does not have sufficient water to supply the town and the plant and that the plant's supply had been curtailed.

Schwalm also said that it was incorrectly reported Friday that the

America's 3 Greatest Songs, Their Authors, Background

This is the second in the series of three articles written by Mr. Taylor for The Times on three great American songs.

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR

My second song, our beloved AMERICA, was written on a scrap of waste paper by an Andover student in half an hour. Doctor Samuel Francis Smith, a young theological student at the time, penned the immortal verses of MY COUNTRY 'TIS OF THEE in a house on Main street, in Andover, Massachusetts, a half hour before sunset on a February day in 1832.

Origin Of Song

Let Doctor Smith tell the origin of his song:

"In the year 1831, Mr. Lowell Mason, a pioneer music teacher in the schools, and with whom I was on terms of friendship, turned over to me a number of German music books, saying, 'Here, I can't read these, but they contain good music which I should be glad to use.' Knowing I could read German, he suggested that I look through the books, and, if I should find anything particularly good, give him a translation or imitation of it, or, if I wished, write a wholly original song.

"Accordingly, one leisurely afternoon, while looking through the books, I fell in with the tune, 'GOD SAVE THE KING,' and at once took up my pen and wrote the piece in question. It was struck off at one sitting without the slightest idea that it would ever attain the popularity it has since enjoyed.

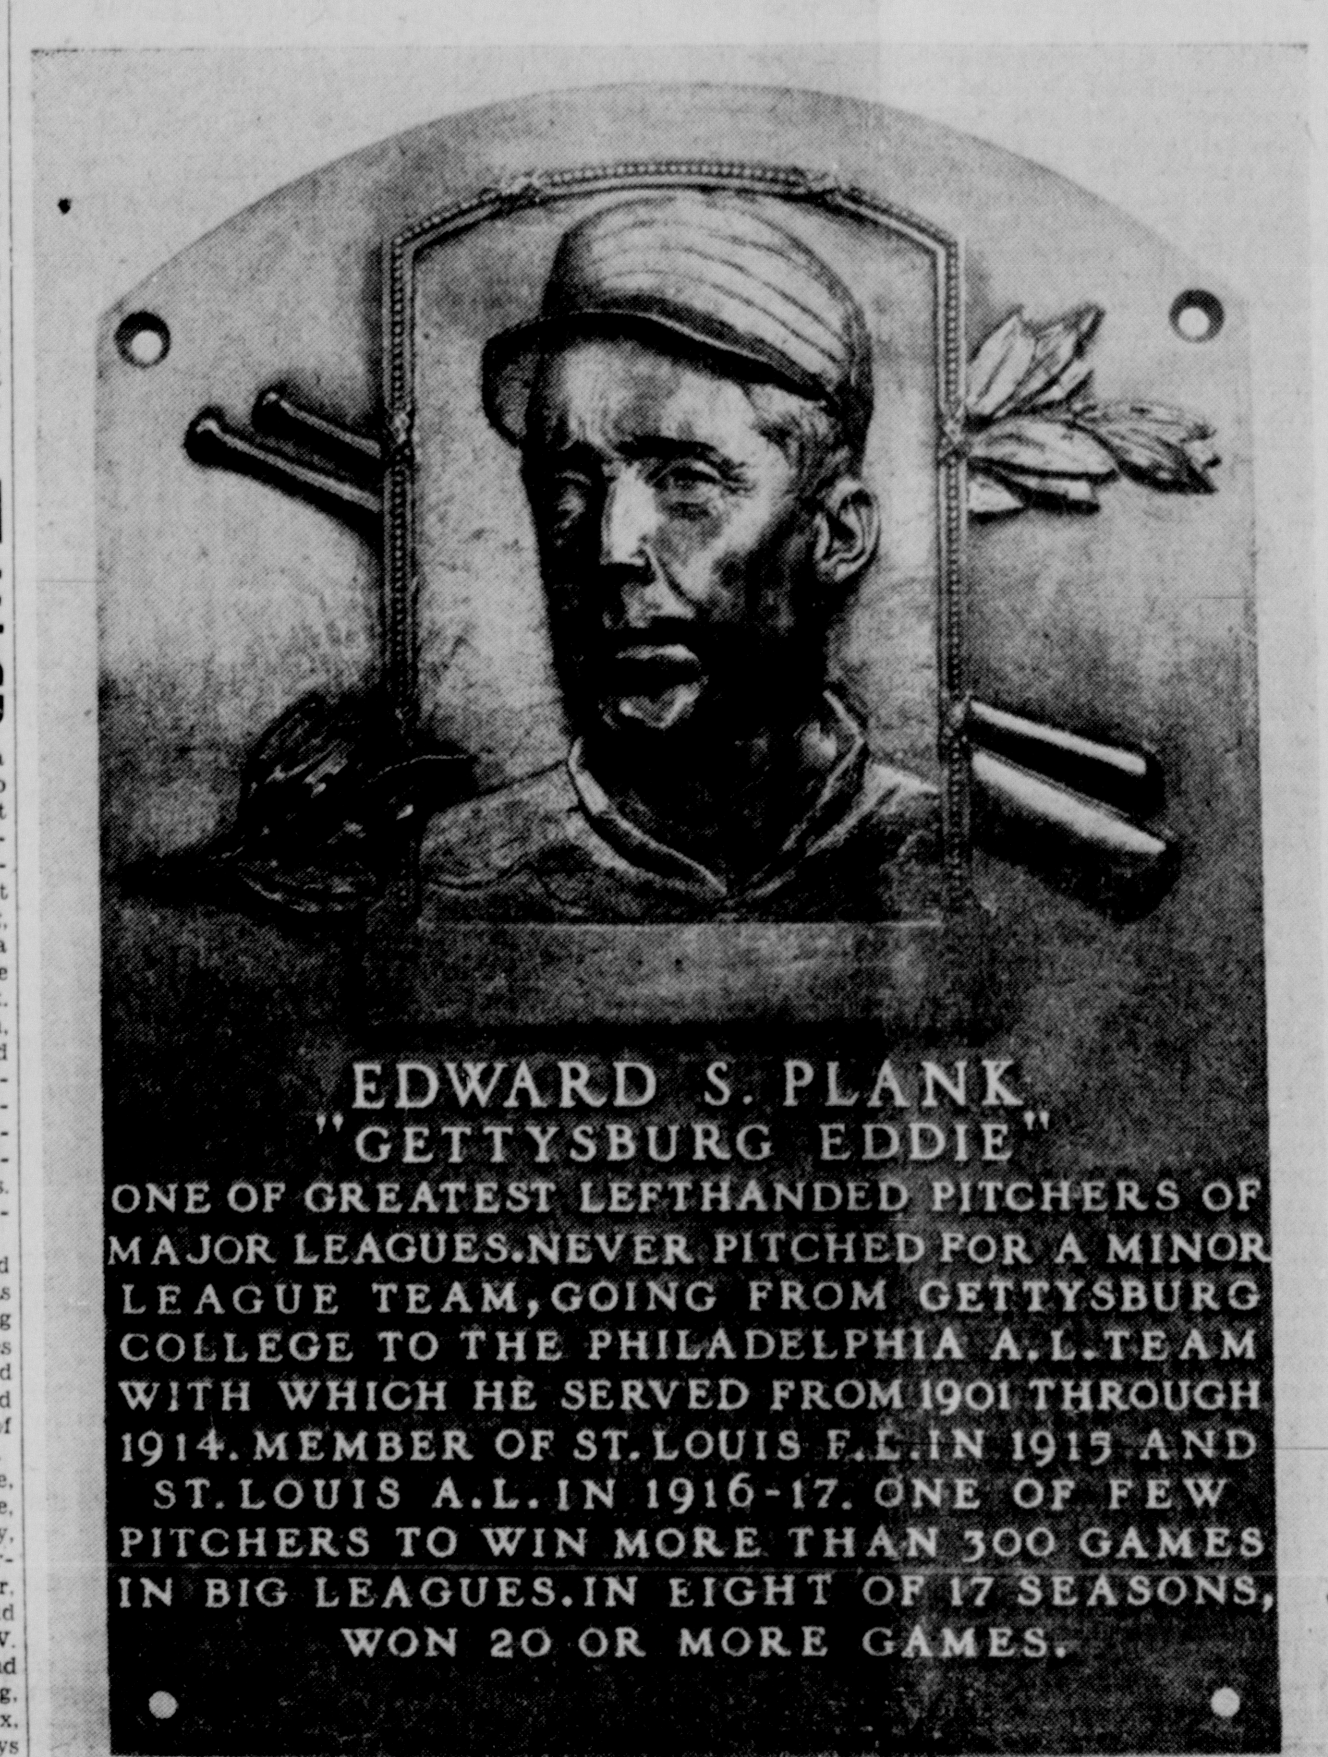

"The first time it was sung publicly was at a children's celebration of American Independence, held at the Park street Church in Boston on July 4, 1832. If I had anticipated the future of the song, doubtless I would have taken more pains with it. Such as it is, I am glad to have contributed this mite to the cause of American freedom."

Lived A Full Life

Indonesians Report Dutch Attacking By Land, Air, Sea

Batavia, Java, July 21 (AP)—President Soekarno said by radio tonight the Dutch were attacking his Indonesian republic by land, air and sea. He appealed to the world to force the United Nations Security Council to take up the issue.

A Dutch communiqué said Dutch warplanes had attacked republican airfields in Java and Sumatra because Indonesian fighter planes were ready for action.

The Dutch, declaring they would not attack either the civil population or non-military objectives, were attempting to immobilize harassing anti-aircraft guns at the fields and the republican air force, believed to number about 40 obsolescent Japanese planes, many in poor repair.

The republican radio, over which Soekarno appealed, said Dutch artillery had opened fire south of Bandung, 100 miles southeast of Batavia. The report said two Dutch planes using rockets attacked Tasik Malaya, in west Java, and that other Dutch aircraft had strafed a Soerakarta-Sraden railway train.

General Soedirman, Indonesian commander, spoke after Soekarno and said his side still hoped for a peaceful settlement, but that he had ordered the nationalist army (of about 200,000 troops) to counter-attack every time the Dutch struck at them.

The shooting resulted after months of wrangling in which the Dutch and natives failed to agree on methods of implementing the Cheribon agreement, providing for complete independence under the Netherlands crown in 1949.

"We appeal to the world to realize the full significance of these actions the Dutch have taken," Soekarno said. "I am convinced that justice is on our side and we are prepared to put the question before the UN, which was formed to secure the peace of the world."

Without detailing the land, sea and air attacks, Soekarno entreated Indonesians "from Sumatra to New Guinea" to defend the republic, which he called a "symbol of Indonesian righteousness and faith."

Premier Amir Sjarifoedin spoke earlier, asserting that what the Dutch "want is a colonial war at the moment when Britain is giving India freedom and Burma is approaching independence."

"We asked for arbitration, but one nation (Holland) has taken up arms against us," he said.

Indonesian broadcasts and other sources said the finely equipped Dutch army of about 120,000 men; and surplus military equipment, was striking simultaneously at numerous points.

Dr. H. J. van Mook, acting Dutch governor general, called the skirmishing "police action."

THREE ADAMS COUNTIANS ON JOINT GROUP

Three Adams county growers and processors were named to a 12-man joint committee from the 4-state Appalachian Apple area to "work out correct answers" of the mutual problems and prospects of the apple season which has been termed "the most unpredictable since 1940."

Appointment of the joint committee took place at a recent meeting of the Appalachian area growers and processors at Martinsburg, West Virginia. Adams countians on the committee include: M. E. Knouse, Peach Glen, chairman of the processors, and John A. Hauser, Biglerville as a member of that group and John B. Peters, Aspers, member of the growers group.

The joint committee is expected to compile its answers to the problems "when conditions have 'jelled' sufficiently, probably by mid-August."

Fine Reputation

At the Martinsburg session Mr. Peters, speaking from the growers' viewpoint said that "apple processors have built for themselves a national reputation for producing the finest apple sauce; this is in large part because of the varieties grown heaviest in this belt, the York Imperial, Grimes Golden and Stayman, which have proven superior for canning to all others. Continuance in this top rank hinges on our processors being able to secure these varieties, and growers will do well to aid the processors in getting the maximum of these this season, when the 4-state crop is so short."

He said that "growers' costs-of-production will be higher this year than last; the recession predicted (Please turn to Page 2) documents, and other papers shall be placed in a sealed vault or compartment and carefully preserved from official or public inspection or private view until after the expiration of 21 years from the date of my death."

Robert T. Lincoln, son of the President, died July 26, 1926—and the 21 years is up next Saturday. Many of these papers, prior to being placed under the care of the Library of Congress, were examined by historians writing about the Civil War President.

TO ATTEND S. S. CONVENTIONS

The executive committee of the Adams County Council of Christian Education met in the YWCA here recently, with the president, R. R. Starnier, Bendersville, presiding.

The Rev. George W. Harrison, Bendersville, was appointed county delegate to the 85th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School association to be held in Scranton October 7 to 10. Adams county's quota is 25 delegates. Each of the six districts in the county will be asked to send four delegates.

THREE ADAMS

(Continued from Page 1) earlier by economists has so far failed to materialize, but price tendencies are uncertain. With careful consultation between the growers and their largest customers, the processors, the answer can be worked out that is fairest to all—growers, processors and the consumer."

Set New Record Mr. Knouse, speaking for the processors, said "the 1946 pack of apple sauce had broken all records—8,900,000 cases, nationally, against an average of five million cases; that enough of this remained unconsumed to have been threatening if another big apple crop had come to this area this fall; but with the very short crop in this area, resulting in a light crop nationally, processing can, probably only at the best, result in a normal carry-over."

"Processors' costs, too, will be sharply increased," said Mr. Knouse. "Cans are 1c more each, sugar and fiber-board containers are higher; a total increase of around 25c per dozen cans, with others probable. The processors believe it very unwise to increase their selling prices the coming season over last year's, fearing a recurrence of what happened in canned sour cherries, that prices were so high that consumers did not buy heavily enough and supplies dammed up."

With growers' costs higher and processors' costs higher, and an increase in retail prices undesirable, it was agreed at the session that the question remains to be answered: "Where and by whom will this difference be absorbed?"

America's Three Greatest Songs

ments, and missionary work in Europe. But for more than anything else, he deserves everlasting credit for having given undying expression to the concept of freedom which is the heart of the American idea.

Doctor Oliver Wendell Holmes, the Boston "Autocrat," and a classmate of Doctor Smith at Harvard, said:

"What is fame?" Then, in answer to his own question, the genial Doctor replied: "It is to write a hymn which sixty millions of people sing—that is fame!" In referring again to his old friend and classmate, he exclaimed: "Now there's Smith, his name will be honored by every school child in the land when I have been forgotten for a hundred years. He wrote, 'MY Country, 'Tis of Thee!' If he had said, 'OUR Country,' the hymn would not have been immortal, but that 'MY' was a master stroke. Every one who sings the song feels a personal ownership in his native land. The Hymn will last as long as the country."

Claim To Renew

Upon another occasion, at an assemblage of a graduating class of Harvard, many years afterward, Doctor Holmes neatly summed up his old classmate's title to renown in one of the ingenious stanzas of his celebrated class reunion poem, entitled, "THE BOYS."

"And there's a nice youngster of excellent pith,—

Fate thought to conceal him by naming him Smith; But he chanted a song for the brave and the free,— Just read on his medal, 'My Country, of Thee!'"

In relating the exploits of the "Rough Riders," both Colonel Roosevelt and Edward Marshall mention a very touching incident in connection with "AMERICA," which occurred at the improvised open-air hospital after the fight of Las Guasimas. Imagine a hospital without even a tent to cover it! The wounded men lay sheltered beneath the spreading branches of a mango tree, there in the wilderness. Most of them had only the canvas halves of shelter tents to protect them from the wet grass; only a few had blankets to lie upon.

Dreadful Operations

Some dreadful operations had to be performed in that little hospital in the woods, and as human nature has limits, it is small wonder that some few of the men who had stood there suffering with calm patience and without any complaint were, by this time, so strained and nerve racked that it was impossible for them to control themselves any longer, so that the poor fellows groaned uncannily. Most of them were badly wounded; some were looking forward to amputation of their arms and legs with what fortitude they were able to command, and some were staring death in the face.

Edward Marshall, though a war correspondent, not a soldier, was nevertheless so terribly injured that when first succored, on the battlefield, it was not thought worthwhile even to dress his wound. The over-worked surgeons considered it could not be otherwise than fatal. He confesses himself, that he was simply waiting for the end, when, with startling suddenness, one of the number began to sing:

My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty, Of thee we sing.

Wounded Patients Sing At this point, Marshall says, he and Captain James McCintock joined in, and the trembling song went on, interrupted by the pitiful groans of those who were in mortal pain. He declares that, "Probably no song was ever sung more earnestly; certainly no words were ever uttered which cost more effort to some of us than those did." For, as he repeats, "It was a doleful little group of hurt Americans, off there under a tree, in the midst of the Cuban solitude; and nothing seemed so dear to us, just then, as the homes which we might never see again, and the country which some of us left behind forever."

He goes on to tell that by and by he noticed that one voice faltered and lagged behind after all the rest had finished the line,

Let freedom ring.

Yet still that voice went on, though struggling and growing fainter:

Land—of—the—Pilgrims—pride Let freedom — and then—silence. "One more son had died as died the fathers." Doctor Smith lived to hear his poem sung wherever there were American hearts to pulsate, and was so deeply and sincerely honored that it is doubtful if he had an enemy or critic anywhere. AMERICA has been sung by Americans on all the far-flung battle fronts of the world. It has brought a sense of home-being to soldiers stranded in front-line trenches, and to sailors rocked by wild and savage seas. It has brought a sense of security, peace, and contentment to the American people. "I am an American," they tell themselves, as they sing Doctor Smith's song, and they are proud.

The stone building will be enlarged and equipment removed, making way for locker rooms, a professional golf shop, recreation rooms, dining room, etc. The building is said to be in excellent condition, with a large fireplace.

The club also will construct a new off-channel dam, taking the waters from Willoughby run, which will provide water for the golf course, and a recreational area for fishing, and in the winter skating. The swimming pool will be constructed to utilize the waters of the famous springs.

A three-lane roadway will be built from the Lincoln highway to the new clubhouse, which will have a practice green in front of it.

Included in the plans is also the development of a new home site on the high land on the west side of the property, which will border the fairways and greens of the new golf course. The property extends south for approximately one mile on this side of the site.

Golf course architects were here today from Lancaster to go over the property and begin the laying out of the course, together with a soil expert from State college, whose services were obtained through County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman.

The major portion of the property is bounded on the west and east sides by government land, on the south by the Old Mill road, and on the north by the Lincoln highway.

The incorporators plan to leave the springs as they are at present, but a committee will be appointed to consider their development later. Mr. Brown said. There will be no meals served at the club except for parties by caterers.

College Secures Another Building

A new recitation building of 2,500 square feet to house four classes of 40 students each will be erected on the Gettysburg college campus this summer, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president, announced today.

The structure is the former administration building of the Williamsport Ordnance company and was secured for the college through the Federal Works Agency, Bureau of Community Facilities.

The building will be dismantled and transported here where it will be reassembled. It is expected to be ready for occupancy about September 15. A covered, ground-level tunnel will connect the building with Gladfelter hall in the rear.

NATIONAL GRID LOOP PROHIBITS COLLEGE RAIDS

Pittsburgh, July 21 (AP)—National Football league owners popped from a huddle yesterday with a new play for college grid will—but it'll take time to determine whether they're "mouse-trapped" themselves or the rival All-America conference with the maneuver.

The National league owners voted to prohibit the signing of players still eligible for college competition after their original classes have graduated, if the prospects have been registered for further education. The new rule is not retroactive.

Previously, league teams were permitted to sign willing collegians whose classes had graduated or who had received scholarships in accelerated courses without exhausting their collegiate eligibility.

The All-America operates under limitations similar to the old National ruling. With the more stringent stand taken by the 28-year-old National circuit, the All-America now has a clear field to players whose college careers were interrupted with no loss of eligibility.

Could Aid A-A

Conceivably that could give the All-America a bulge in the highly competitive hunt for talent—at the expense of wounding some colleges' feelings. Or the All-America could emulate the National's new bit of high-mindedness by eschewing the use of that lovely lure, cash, to take a youth away from the pursuit of an education already delayed beyond its normal course by such things as a war.

Asked whether the All-America would be requested to adopt a similarly stringent ruling, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell avoided the issue with a blunt assertion that his circuit does not recognize the other league's existence officially.

Bell said the tighter rule was for the "avowed desire to cooperate with the colleges and prevent raiding."

The National Football league is sensitive to "raiding" since it lost several of its prospects to the more lucrative offers of the All-America.

George Marshall, Washington Redskins owner, chimed in with: "Now is the time for the league to protect itself by protecting the colleges because without college football there would be no league past, present or future."

In the one-day session here, National league also voted financial aid of an undetermined amount to a $500,000 project for establishment of a pro football "Hall of Fame" in Latrobe, western Pennsylvania town the circuit recognizes as "the official birthplace of the game."

Commenting on a report that George Halas and Bob Zupke were cooking up a new football offense for the Chicago Bears because rival coaches had learned all about the "T" Luke Johnson has this to say: "As far as the other people catching up with the Bears, Halas never lets his competitors get within five years of his offense. George's theory is that he can learn from a Chinaman and Zupke isn't a Chinaman."

DOT'S ALL BROTHERS

Laugh of the week was provided by the burglar who ransacked Rocky Graziano's house and stole all his clothes except a necktie which Rocky never would wear. . . . There's no rule against studying. . . . Ken Loeffler, St. Louis Bombers basketball coach is looking for a fall job coaching a 150-pound football team. He'd like to see some little guys for a change.

Baltimore, July 21 (AP)—A week-end visit with friends ended tragically for Thomas J. Leach, 36, of Route 3, Lewistown, Pa. He was injured fatally in a diving accident at a Chesapeake Bay resort near here. Leach was pronounced dead of a broken neck after he dove from a raft into three feet of water off Bay Shore park.

Fairfield knocked out Bendersville 7 to 5 while New Oxford won 3 to 2 to decide over Emmitsburg, scoring the winning run on an error. McSherrystown had difficulty obtaining a 6 to 5 decision from Ortanna in an 11 inning struggle, with an error and a base hit combined pushing across the winning run. Ortanna took a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning in the game at McSherrystown. The home team tied the score in the sixth with four consecutive hits pushing a run across.

The visitors came back in the eighth inning with hits by H. Deardorff, C. Rebert, D. Rebert, D. C. and R. Deardorff and a fielders choice giving the Ortannans four runs. In McSherrystown's half of the eighth it put across two runs on two hits and an error and then in the 9th two hits and a dropped fly ball gave McSherrystown two more runs to tie the score at 5 to 5.

Gettysburg loses

Emmitsburg was leading New Oxford 2 to 1 until the ninth inning when, after Carbaugh flew out, Sponseller walked and then stole second. L. Bevenour singled to score Sponseller, tying the score. L. Bevenour went to second on a throw home. E. Bevenour was given an intentional pass and Herman singled to short left to fill the bases. E. Staub hit and the Emmitsburg third baseman threw wild to home permitting L. Bevenour to score.

Arendtsville had little difficulty in disposing of Gettysburg 6 to 3 at Gettysburg and Hanover won 3 to 1 from Littletown.

Scranton Miners Lose 2 To Barons

The Scranton Miners, who were challenging the pace-setting Utica Blue Sox in the Eastern league a few weeks ago, are in fourth place today, eight and a half games behind the leaders.

The fast-fading Miners were trounced twice yesterday by their successors in the runner-up spot, the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 10-0 and 7-2.

The Binghamton Triplets, showing improvement in recent weeks, climbed out of the cellar yesterday by defeating Utica, 1-0 in a 10-inning thriller at Binghamton.

The Trips, a New York Yankee farm club, were replaced in the dungeon by the Elmira Pioneers, who dropped both ends of a twin bill to the Williamsport Tigers, 5-3 and 1-0 at Elmira.

The third-place Albany Senators, five games behind the leaders, took two games from the Hartford Chiefs by identical scores, 4-2.

In the only game played Saturday, Elmira beat Utica, 3-2. Binghamton's scheduled game at Williamsport was rained out.

The Barlow-Granite game at Barlow was featured by a small but strong whirlwind that took over between the pitchers mound and third base in the eighth inning and caused the players to take a rest until it traveled out into the outfield and finally disappeared.

Cashtown had no difficulty defeating Heildersburg Sunday, and Wensville got 23 hits off five pitchers in pushing the Bonneauville team out of the first place tie.

Granite defeated Barlow, 11 to 7, in the other game played Sunday with Gettysburg and Brushtown deciding to postpone their tilt until later this week because of wet grounds at Bonneauville.

Next Sunday's Final Games

Heildersburg at Barlow. Granite at Cashtown. Wensville at Brushtown. Gettysburg at Bonneauville. Cashtown took over the leadership of the South Penn league Sunday with an 8 to 1 victory over Heildersburg while Bonneauville lost 14 to 12, to Wensville.

The two teams had been tied for the top post in the loop, which is scheduled to end its regular season next Sunday, but the chances are still possible for the two to end in a tie next Sunday.

Cashtown had no difficulty defeating Heildersburg Sunday, and Wensville got 23 hits off five pitchers in pushing the Bonneauville team out of the first place tie.

Granite defeated Barlow, 11 to 7, in the other game played Sunday with Gettysburg and Brushtown deciding to postpone their tilt until later this week because of wet grounds at Bonneauville.

The Barlow-Granite game at Barlow was featured by a small but strong whirlwind that took over between the pitchers mound and third base in the eighth inning and caused the players to take a rest until it traveled out into the outfield and finally disappeared.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

One of our former townsmen, (Mr. Joseph Allen,) who was in Mexico, has returned to this place. His health is considerably impaired by the campaign.

Married: On Thursday, the 15th inst., by the Rev. E. V. Gerhart, Mr. Barnabas W. Riley, to Miss Mary M., daughter of Mr. John Butt—both of Cumberland township.

On the 15th ult., in Belmont county, Ohio, by the Rev. James Drummond, Mr. John Buchanan to Miss Mary Catharine, daughter of Frederick Ashbaugh, Esq., formerly of this county.

The steamship Princeton sailed from Philadelphia on Friday morning for the Mediterranean, in pursuit of the piratical gangs that have been attacking our vessels. The armament is nine 42's and one 28—Paixhan.

By Divine permission, the new Methodist E. Church in Petersburg, (Y. S.) will be dedicated to the service of Almighty God, on Sabbath 1st day of August—services commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. Several ministers are expected to be in attendance.

By order of the Building Committee.

Tariff of 1846 and Prices: The new Free Trade Tariff of Mr. Polk, it would seem, after all, is a bad regulator of the Prices. A few weeks ago, Wheat Flour was $10 a barrel. Now it is quoted at $5 a $61—If this is a specimen of the effects of the new Tariff, it seems likely to realize the worst prediction of the Whigs. Such exorbitant prices one day and such moderate ones the next, are not calculated to benefit the producer or the consumer.—Village Record.

Died: On Friday, in this borough, suddenly, Mr. John Sheets. He has been laboring under a partial paralysis for some years.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Grand Tournament: We understand that our townsman, Mr. John M. Warner, is making arrangements to get up a grand Tournament, to come off on the 22d of August, on the Fair Grounds, in this place. He will be assisted by the members of the Gettysburg Cornet Band and other gentlemen. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Band.

Mr. Warner has special tact for getting up entertainments. We have no doubt the proposed tournament will be a success.

Sales: The Executors of the Estate of Prof. Ehrenhart, dec'd., have sold to Prof. H. Louis Baugher a lot of ground adjoining the residence of the latter on Carlisle street for $500.

Personal: Rev. Wm. E. Parson, of Washington, D. C., a graduate of the College and Seminary at this place, has accepted an appointment from the Japanese Government, as instructor to the members of the Japanese Embassy, now in the country. He will accompany the Embassy on its tour throughout Europe, and will return home, in about a year, by way of Japan.

On Saturday, Dr. Suesserott, of Chambersburg, with his brother, drove over to Gettysburg, to visit his sister. The horse, which was a valuable animal, was attacked with cramp colic shortly after his arrival here, and died in a few hours.

Important Decision: The decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on the 3d inst., we presume, will prevent Students at the College and Seminary from voting in Gettysburg at future elections. The principle underlying the decision strikes us as far-reaching and affecting a large class of voters other than students, having temporary abodes in election districts.

The labor strike recently inaugurated in New York and which threatened to sweep over the United States like a prairie fire, has completely died out, scarcely a vestige of it being left in New York. The demonstration has ended most dis-

Today's Talk

SIMPLICITY

It is interesting to note how simplicity grows upon one—especially upon those who have known simplicity in early life, only to desert it, and later return to it. Such people learn the futility of holding on to too much.

Beauty is in simple lines, planes, and masses. Nature is not ornate, but simple. The finest furniture is designed on simple lines. So are women's gowns. It's the fabric that counts, and this gives its finest show when most simply displayed.

Men whose origin has been simple, no matter how great their later wealth, usually stick to their early habits of simplicity. They see how insincere is gross and vulgar display. Great leaders are usually men of simple taste and simple ways. Essential equipment alone is what carries men or women to their objectives.

The simpler a beautiful woman is, the more does her beauty stand forth. She needs no extra jewels or costly ornaments. The very finest ornament for a beautiful woman should be a warm and gracious heart. Such an ornament radiates and is remembered.

The greatest books are written in the simplest manner, with short words, and simplicity of style. Notable are the works of Shakespeare and the Bible. The greatest of writers have drawn inspiration and lessons from these two.

Vulgar display of wealth is always bad taste. There are those, however, who have great wealth who never make you feel conscious of the fact. They are deserving of that wealth. They are worthy to tie to, no matter what their station, or fortune. Character is worth, and it may be found among the humblest as well as among the exalted of this earth.

Simple tastes and simple ways lead to the greatest happiness. There are so many laws in the statute-books, that not one person in a million could possibly know them all. But if he can just keep in mind one rule that was suggested something like nearly 2,000 years ago by a simple man "who went about doing good," that is all that would be necessary to keep him a good citizen, no matter in what part of the world he might be—and that is what we all know as The Golden Rule—to do unto others as we would want them to do unto us!

If the United Nations would adopt this simple rule—and stick to it, all quarrels would be over—and all wars, as well! But I guess that would be too simple!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Observer."

Just Folks

The Poet of the People
By EDGAR A. GUEST
ABOUT GARDENING

All this I know: a garden makes
Bliss and many muscle aches.
From planting blue delphinium
A woeful vertebra may come.
The weeds with fury to attack
Disturb the sacroiliac.
From wetting feet with garden hose.
Pneumonia, single, double grows.
Then, as his roses, white and red,
The gardener plants himself in bed.
The climbing rose has thorns to tear with,
But rheumatism's worse to bear with.
So, gardeners, when you are hoeing
Be sure it's flowers, not pains, you're growing.

A garden is a thing of beauty;
To guard it is man's bounden duty;
Give it consideration prayerful,
But if past middle age be careful!
When work you must, with joy go to it,
But never, never overdo it!

Theological Seminary: We understand the prospect for a large accession of Students at the next session of the Theological Seminary in this place, is very encouraging. It is certain that the number will be greater than at any previous term since the foundation of the Seminary.

The Board of Directors having failed to fill the vacant Professorship at their last meeting, charged the existing Faculty and the officers of the Board with the duty of making temporary provisions for full instruction. The friends of the Seminary will be glad to learn that satisfactory arrangements have been concluded in this respect. Rev. C. A. EX-PREMIER IS HELD IN BURMA PROBE

Rangoon, Burma, July 21 (P)—Burmese police held former Premier U. Saw and 19 of his lieutenants today after killing three of the opposition leader's followers in a gun fight at his home yesterday when they arrested the group in connection with the Saturday massacre of seven council ministers.

U Saw—leader of the Myochit party—was held under heavy guard in the Rangoon central jail while authorities imposed a dusk to dawn curfew on the city.

Authorities said the raid on the former premier's home was led by Ba Maung, inspector general of Burma police. A violent gun fight ensued before U Saw and his followers surrendered. During the battle three Myochit party members were killed.

Officials said a search of U Saw's house unearthed a cache of arms and ammunition.

Nearly 50 Arrests

The Burmese press said nearly 50 persons all told had been arrested as a result of the assassinations of Maj. Gen U Aung San and six fellow ministers who were cut down by machinegun fire during a meeting of the nine-man executive council in government house on Saturday morning. Six of the victims died soon after the attack and a seventh, Sao Sam Htun Sawba, succumbed the next day.

A new ministry was sworn in to replace the slain members. The government announced that Thakin Nu, leader of the constituent assembly and one of Aung San's aides in the anti-Fascist People's Freedom league, took the oath as deputy chairman of the executive council. Rangoon, shocked by the news of the assassinations, closed its shops and bazaars and thousands of mourners filed past the biers of the victims.

Calls Truman Now 'Most Acceptable'

Pittsburgh, July 21 (P)—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and one of President Truman's most vigorous foes a year ago, says he thinks Truman is "more acceptable for the next Presidential term than any Republican candidate thus far mentioned."

Whitney bitterly attacked the President when Truman supported emergency labor legislation during the nationwide railroad strike in May, 1946.

However, in a week-end press conference here, Whitney hailed the President for the stand he took in opposition to the Taft-Hartley labor bill which Congress passed over Truman's veto.

Brief Notes On Insect Control

Do not permit Mexican beans beetles to become numerous before starting combat. When the first copper-colored beetles or their orange, spiny young appear, spray at once or dust with rotenone. Be careful to apply the insecticide so the under sides of the leaves are coated.

If the asparagus beetle, a metallic blue insect about one-quarter of an inch in length, infests asparagus plants after the cutting season ends, combat the pest with calcium arsenate at the rate of 5 level tablespoons in a gallon of water in which 3 ounces of hydrated lime has been dissolved. Do not use this spray during the harvesting season.

When leafhoppers, pale greenish insects often known as white flies, attack beans, potatoes and several other crops, causing the conditions called hopperburn, dust infested plants with a mixture of pyrethrum and sulphur—5 level tablespoons of pyrethrum powder mixed with 1½ pounds of superfine dusting sulphur. Do not, however, use sulphur on squash, melon, cantaloupe and cucumber plants.

Red spiders are so small they escape detection by the naked eye. But they are usually betrayed by their tiny webs and the gradually browning leaves they injure. Drive them off with a liberal application of dusting sulphur.

Combat the green cabbage worm before heads begin to form with calcium arsenate as a dust mixed with hydrated lime at the rate of 1 pound to 5 pounds of fine lime. When this pest attacks cabbage after heads begin to form, use a rotenone dust for safety.

Hornworms, the large, ugly pest that usually feeds on tomato plants, may attack eggplants also. In either case, handpick to control. The same advice applies for peppers.

If the sweetcorn earworm begins ravaging okra pods, pick off infested pods and burn them and handpick the visible worms.

Late potatoes are often attacked by the scurrying blister beetle, a slender grayish to black or striped insect measuring one-half to three-fourths of an inch in length. Hand-picking is advised on a small planting and a cryolite dust for larger areas. This dust is prepared by mixing 1 part (by weight) of talc with 2 pounds of cryolite.

Rhpharb is occasionally injured by a large yellow-snouted beetle that punctures the stems. Hand pick carefully and be certain to destroy all dock plants near the garden, as the insects breed in wild dock.

In case ear worms begin to damage sweet corn, write the editor for a free copy of our simple control directions.

Squash bugs, often known as "stink bugs," may be kept under satisfactory control by mashing the egg clusters found on the leaves and by placing short sections on boards near infested plants. Bugs congregated beneath the boards are easily killed in the morning.

Slugs and snails may usually be driven off and many killed by dusting infested areas liberally with hydrated lime every evening or two.

Adopt the profitable habit of writing the editor whenever an insect problem arises, or better, before one is expected. Ask all the questions desired. Merely enclose a 3-cent stamp and sign name and address plainly.

Prune Brambles After Harvest

Bramble fruits—raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and their related strains—are borne solely on one-year old canes, never on older canes. Therefore, as soon as the fruit is harvested the old cane is thereafter useless. In fact, it is then a liability, using plant foods and moisture which should be saved for the new canes—those on which the next year's fruit will be produced. These truths mean that all cultivated bramble fruits should be pruned soon after the berries are picked. This is an important step in bramble culture.

There are two main steps in post-harvest pruning of brambles which necessitate a clear understanding—removal of the old canes and control over new canes. Of course, prompt cutting out and burning of diseased and insect-infested canes is a bramble plantation "must" at any season of the year.

SUMMER CARE OF PLANTS IS GARDEN MUST

Many gardeners lose their spring-time enthusiasm with the coming of continuous warm weather and are prone to neglect the more arduous garden tasks. Yet if the herbaceous border is to be maintained in a flourishing condition during summer and fall certain duties must not be neglected, says Gisela Grimm, in the New York Herald-Tribune. Attended to regularly and in time, these duties should not tax the gardener's strength unduly and he will be well repaid in a healthy, beautiful border.

Keeping the fading flowers cut off before the plant's strength goes into seed production is a small task but results in continuous bloom. This is particularly important with the annuals and many perennials, such as phlox, delphinium, salvia and veronica; they will give a second crop of flowers if cut back after the first flowering. These should not be cut to the ground, but directly below the flower head or spike where side shoots will form. In any case, the removal of the faded flowers is necessary to give a neat appearance.

Another important but not strenuous task at this season is the staking of tall plants, as hardy asters, heleniums, lilies, etc., before they are blown over by strong winds or beaten down by heavy rains. It is then difficult to stake them in the natural manner which will display the blooms to the best advantage.

Staking Methods Vary
The various plants require different treatments. Some, such as delphiniums, lilies, chrysanthemums, phlox and tall veronicas, are staked with best effect with several light, slender stakes, rather than bundling all the stems to one strong stake. The taller hardy asters, when allowed to grow naturally, require such treatment. If the asters are pinched back several times they will grow bushy and require less support.

Plants which grow from one strong central stem, as zinnias, marigolds and cosmos, may be nicely supported with one strong stake. There are wire plant hoops and other adjustable contrivances available which support the plants in a natural manner if used in time. These are particularly fine for plants of medium height, as platycodons and phlox.

Even when the border has been well prepared and fertilized in the spring, a light midsummer feeding will stimulate the plants into better growth and bloom. Chrysanthemums, particularly, usually the mainstay of the fall garden, must be kept steadily growing during the summer or the stems become hard and woody and the flowers poor.

Balanced commercial fertilizer will give good results if correctly applied. There is danger in applying it when the soil is very dry. The fertilizer should be sprinkled very lightly about the plants, lightly scratched into the soil and watered in well.

Pottsville, Pa., July 21 (P)—A petition for the release of Albert Shinsky, former Shenandoah taxi driver, from Fairview State hospital where he was committed following the hex slaying of Mrs. Susan Mumme is on file today in Schuylkill county court.

Washington, July 21 (P)—Pennsylvania's delegation in Congress voted along party lines Friday on President Truman's veto of a bill that would have reduced income taxes effective next January 1. In the Senate, Republican Edward Martin voted to override the veto while Democrat Francis J. Myers voted against it.

possibly death may result. And too, moldy corn should be fed with care to poultry. But apparently cattle are immune to its dangers, and such corn may be fed safely to hogs so long as they will eat it.

Many farmers in the Corn Belt, when caught with a large crop of immature corn when fall comes, hog down the crop. Here is another excellent way to salvage the maximum value from soft corn, but again the animals must be accustomed gradually to the grain. And also, in order to prevent heavy waste from hogs not cleaning up when the grain is properly matured, temporary fencing should be employed so the field can be hogged down in successive strips of rows.

One of the reasons for bringing up this subject so early in the season is to permit farmers with prospective crops of soft corn to have time to build silos. Silage is by far the most profitable and satisfactory way in which to handle the soft corn crop. Either the entire stalk and ear may be placed in the silo, as is commonly practiced, or the ears may be used for ensilage and the stalk allowed to mature for roughage.

If immature corn is cut and shocked, the work should be postponed as late as possible. And shocks should be made small. Then husking should be delayed until after cold weather arrives or even until spring. In all cases corn cobs for immature corn should be built high from the ground and made very narrow so ventilation will carry away a maximum percentage of moisture.

Nicotine Sprays Needed On Lilacs

Lilac scale is a serious pest in many gardens which, if neglected, may require the destruction of the affected plants. The use of a dormant oil spray applied during the late winter seldom suffices to keep the pest under control and it should be supplemented by a vigorous fight against the new brood which makes its appearance during the latter part of June and July. These young ones do not carry the armor of their parents and consequently are vulnerable to the application of nicotine sprays.

If old scale is present be sure to spray with nicotine sulphate once a week or even oftener all during July. Wet all parts of the plants thoroughly and for greater effectiveness add soap to the nicotine solution. This acts as a spreader and also increases the killing power of the nicotine.

TIME TO PLANT PYRETHRUM NOW

Pyrethrum roseum, with its large, daisy-like flowers, is a welcome subject in the perennial border, where it adds a showy display during June or July. Long ago botanists deprived it of its status as a genus and moved it under chrysanthemum, but gardeners, as well as nurserymen, did not follow this move.

Pyrethrum roseum is easy to grow from seed, which may be sown right now to give blooming plants next year. It likes full sun, good drainage and good soil. Although it will grow in poor soil, the plants will be small and the flower display scant. In richer soil, and where organic matter is plentiful, it soon develops into a sturdy plant that carries fifty or more flower-stems.

Divide Clumps
The large blooms are carried on stiff, long stems, which add to their value for cutting. The bright green foliage is finely divided and very graceful. Dividing the clumps every second year for transplanting to a new location where the soil has been enriched with a complete plant food supplemented by a little bonemeal is necessary to maintain their vigor and beauty. Just cut them apart with a sharp knife early in the spring when the new growth appears and set at the same depth where they are to remain for the next two years.

Most seedlings are a bright rose color but there also are lovely red ones as well as white. When the seedlings bloom for the first time mark the most desirable colors for propagation, and when there are enough of them discard those which

ARMY TO TEST 42,000-POUND SUPER BOMB

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, July 21 (AP) — The Army Air Forces is developing and probably will test in the next few months a 42,000-pound super-size bomb.

So far as is known, this will be the largest standard-explosive — that is, non-atomic — missile ever made.

The weight of the bomb suggests that it is intended for use in such aircraft as the B-36, which is capable of carrying 36 tons of explosives and is equipped with a bomb bay of enormous dimensions.

The AAF had even larger bombs — one of 100,000 pounds — under consideration and in the blue print stage, but designers said privately today that a curtailed research program resulted in shelving these projects.

The described 42,000-pounder as "a general purpose, blockbuster" type.

There was a hint over the weekend, meanwhile, that the military may be looking into the future for an even more fearful weapon — an atomic bomb which when dropped from a high altitude might sink deep into the earth and produce a man-made quake.

An AAF announcement of forthcoming tests with deep-penetration bombs on a submarine assembly factory at Farge, Germany, referred specifically only to two standard-explosive bombs developed since the war's end. They are the 25,000-pound "Amazon" and "Samson."

But the announcement concluded with this cryptic statement:

"With the introduction of atomic warfare in World War II, it is logical that the need for these specialized types of bombs may be even greater for future defense."

Continue Probe In 'Coal Stove' Death

Indiana, Pa., July 21 (AP) — Investigation is being continued today in the death of a 54-year-old man who District Attorney Edwin M. Clark said was held over a coal stove during an argument April 27.

Clark identified the victim as John L. Carnahan. He said that James F. McGee, 45, has been held without bail since April 28 on charges of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery.

Clark said Carnahan, before he died, declared that McGee had heaped hot coals on him while he was sleeping, then had pressed him against a stove.

TRIP TO SHRINE HELPS CRIPPLE

New York, July 21 (AP) — Red-haired Sally Ann O'Leary, 12, of Wilkensburg, Pa., arrived back in the United States last night and walked away from a transatlantic plane with slow and firm steps—but without the braces she wore two weeks ago on her departure for a pilgrimage to the Roman Catholic Shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes.

She was one of a party of 20 aboard the TWA Constellation "Star of Cairo," arriving at LaGuardia field from Paris after a pilgrimage to the French shrine under the guidance of the Rev. Father James Cox, of old St. Peter's church, Pittsburgh. All are from the Pittsburgh area.

Crippled since birth, Sally wore heavy braces on both legs as the group left the United States. On the return trip she packed the braces with her luggage, and told reporters on her arrival here:

"I'm not going to wear them again."

Those who accompanied her on the pilgrimage, including her mother, Mrs. Ellen O'Leary, said nine spinal operations had failed to help the child. However, they said, after a visit to the Lourdes shrine, she walked a mile without aid.

Father Cox said he planned another pilgrimage during the Christmas season and a third on next St. Patrick's Day.

Gives Advice On Weeding Gardens

Weeds have no place in the home garden. They rob cultivated plants of water, food, space and light. Control of weeds is necessary, but the fight should be waged with judgment.

A. E. Wilkinson, vegetable and landscape gardening specialist with the agricultural extension service, University of Connecticut, points out that while it is desirable to keep the surface soil loose, there is little to be gained by hoeing or cultivating often than necessary to control weeds. Only light surface stirring of the soil throughout the summer is required for most garden crops. Deep cultivation is not only hard work for the gardener but usually is injurious to plant roots.

It is a serious mistake to work the soil when it is wet. This applies especially to heavy-textured land which is likely to remain full of clods and lumps the rest of the season if worked when wet.

Sharp hoes or other tools used for scraping the surface or sweeps on wheel hoes or garden tractors are ideal cultivating tools for the garden. They make it possible to scrape the top layers of soil and destroy weeds without going deep enough to injure plant roots.

NEW DRIVE FOR 'VETERANS' AID

Washington, July 21 (AP) — Republican Senator Morse (Ore.) applied fresh pressure on party leaders today for passage of two more veterans aid bills.

Four of them—including the terminal leave bond cashing measure which went to President Truman—won Senate approval in a long Saturday session.

But Morse's chances for quick action on his proposals appeared dim as the result of a promise by GOP chiefs giving top priority today to legislation seeking an investigation into the Justice department's handling of vote fraud charges in the 1946 Kansas City Democratic primary.

Despite the prospect of prolonged debate on this measure, Morse said he intended "to do whatever I can" to bring his two bills to a vote today. They would:

1. Increase salary ceilings covering on-the-job veterans training from the present $175 a month for single veterans to $200, and from $200 to $250 for those who are married.

2. Authorize a 15 per cent hike in grants to disabled veterans under a rehabilitation program.

Prospects For End To 50-Day Strike Fade

Pittsburgh, July 21 (AP) — The answer of AFL-General Teamsters Local 249 to an operators' proposal to end a 50-day truck strike by arbitrating a five-cent wage difference was awaited today but prospects of settling the dispute appeared none too bright.

One union leader who declined use of his name said the union is reluctant to arbitrate because a similar dispute submitted to arbitration in 1941 netted only a 7½-cent hourly wage boost.

At that time the operators had offered six cents while the union had asked for 10.

The more than 2,000 teamsters now are demanding a boost of 20 cents an hour and the western Pennsylvania Motor Carriers association, representing 110 major operators, is standing pat on its 15 cent offer.

RECORD CATCH

Bellefonte, Pa., July 21 (AP) — Setting a record for the 14 years since establishment of Fishermen's Paradise here, 27,178 anglers hooked 29,582 trout and killed 10,743 of them since the fishing preserve opened May 23. The season ended Saturday. The largest trout caught was a 26-inch brown, weighing nine pounds and an ounce, hooked by Ernest Pravel of Phillipsburg.

Ant colonies can be wiped out frequently by a single treatment of 10 per cent DDT powder.

CARDS PROTEST BROOKLYN WIN IN HECTIC 9TH

Associated Press Sports Writer league pennant was won—Jor lost out to be the day when the National Sunday, July 20, may well turn it was on that eventful day at Ebbets' field—where the 1946 flag race was decided—that the seven-year-old Dodger-Cardinal feud flared anew.

When the smoke had cleared Mgr. Eddie Dyer of St. Louis declared he was playing the game under official protest. Had the Cards won, Dyer undoubtedly would have recalled his protest, but since the Dodgers turned apparent certain defeat into a 3-2 victory with a brilliant three-run rally in the bottom half of the ninth inning, the protest took on added importance.

What brought about the wrangling and the subsequent protest claim was the denial by the umpires of a home run too Ron Northey, squat Redbird outfielder, in the top of the ninth.

With the Cards ahead 2-0 and two out, Northey propelled a Hugh Casey pitch to dead center that appeared headed for the stands. The ball struck the top of the barrier, glanced off a pipe along the top of the wall and rebounded on the field. Northey, speeding around second, caught sight of Umpire Beans Reardon waving his arm in a circular motion near third and slowed down to a trot. Card third base coach Tony Kaufman, seeing Brooklyn outfielder Dixie Walker scooping up the ball and throwing it into the infield, gave the hurry-up sign to Northey. Ron picked up speed rounding third, but was nailed at the plate by two feet via a Walker-Ed Stankey-Bruce Edwards relay.

After five minutes of heated squabbling during which Northey and Dyer insisted that Ump Reardon had signalled the blow was a home run, plate umpire Jocko Conlan ruled that Northey was out, whereupon Dyer announced his official protest.

The grounds for the protest are these: Reardon, in gesturing that Northey had an automatic homer, caused Ron to slow up on the bases. If Northey had been running it out, he conceivably would have scored. Questioned about the incident in the dressing room, Northey said:

"As I passed second, Reardon held up his hands and said, 'What are you running for? It's a home run.'"

The decision lies in the hands of league president Ford Frick. Should he deny the protest, it may well prove a body blow to the Cards' hopes of catching the first place Dodgers, whom they now trail by five and a half games. Should Frick uphold the protest and order the game resumed from the point of disagreement (as the rule provides), the Dodgers' great rally would be nullified and therefore might cost them an important victory.

The Dodgers gained a half game on the second place New York Giants, increasing their margin to three games, when the Giants split a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds at the Polo Grounds.

Ewell (the ee) Blackwell, striny side-arm slinger of the Reds posted his 15th consecutive victory and his 17th of the campaign in winning the opener for the Reds, 4-1.

A pair of home runs by Bobby Thomson highlighted two bog innings for the Giants and enabled them to win the second game, 9-6. Detroit's tenacious Tigers kept their slim pennant hopes alive by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader from the American league leading New York Yankees, 4-1 and 12-11, and moved within nine and a half games of first place.

The Yanks tied a big league record by having no runners left on base in the opener.

Blasting 16 hits, Pittsburgh routed lefty Warren Spahn, and walloped the Boston Braves, 9-1, to move within a half game out of the National league cellar.

The Chicago Cubs made it 12 victories in 13 games with Philadelphia by defeating the Phils twice, 4-2 and 2-1.

Bobby Feller dropped another 1-0 decision as the Cleveland Indians split with Washington at Municipal Stadium. The Indians took the nightcap, 6-1.

The St. Louis Browns, with the aid of home run hitting, defeated the defending champion Boston Red Sox twice, 4-3 and 7-6 and the Philadelphia Athletics retained their fourth place hold by earning a split with the White Sox in Chicago, winning the second game, 7-4, after Chicago had won the opener, 6-5.

John Paul Jones Hoisted First Stars And Stripes On U. S. Ship July 4, 1777

Editor's note: The following story, comparing the navy known by John Paul Jones with this country's modern naval armament, was written for The Gettysburg Times by Charles W. Harbaugh, a member of the advertising and circulation staff of The Times. Mr. Harbaugh is a son of Mrs. M. J. Harbaugh, West Middle street. He is a student in the school of journalism, University of Kentucky.

"I have not yet begun to fight!" This was the stirring defiance shouted from the decks of the sinking Bon Homme Richard by the embattled American naval commander, John Paul Jones, who was born 200 years ago, July 6, in Kircudbright, Scotland.

"Sighted sub . . . sank same!" This terse phrase of World War II epitomizes the nonchalance of a navy that, 200 years later, floats and flies as mistress of the Seven Seas. If John Paul Jones were to step from the central crypt in the chapel of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., how would this quotation register upon his mind? How would he react to the Navy today?

Aviation And A-bombs
Picture the first of the great American sea fighters with an edition of the January 30, 1947, New York Times in his hands. Think of the quandary he is in as he reads, "Naval aviation is not interested in long-range strategic bombing, but in its own task of long-range anti-submarine warfare and sealane protection," Rear Admiral L. C. Stevens, assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics in the Navy Department, declared at meetings of the Institute of Aeronautical Science.

He has a lot of questions to ask, too, about 10,000 ton vessels such as the former German cruiser Prince Eugen which sank in Kwajalein harbor December 16 after surviving both atomic bursts in the Bikini A-bomb tests. When John Paul Jones addressed his historic battle cry to the astonished Captain Pearson of the Serapis, he was shouting to the commander of a new, double-banked, 800 ton frigate. Ten thousand tons of cruiser is a strain on his imagination.

Pride and Patriotism
No, he doesn't think much of this idea. He had sailed at the age of 12. He schooled himself in navigation both at sea and in port. At 19 he became the chief mate on a slaver, and although this business disgusted him, it was considered a legitimate trade at the time. He was the captain of a trader at 21.

Born in Kircudbright, Scotland, July 6, 1747, John Paul Jones grew to be a small, slender man. He was five feet, seven inches tall. He had regular features, and his black eyes carried a brilliancy of wet anthracite.

Historians say that his morals were above those of standards set for his day, and that his chief fault was vanity.

In an article by Emma Repeler in the Independent of April 12, 1906, it was said of Jones: "He holds you by the force of his hot-headed imagination."

Animal Crews and PTs

Even the expressions of modern naval terminology befuddled him. The very tests of the A-bombs upon the fleets of Bikini and matters of radioactivity present a pretty jig-saw for him to piece together. Animal crews for purposes of experimentation are hard for him to take in his stride. Submarine warfare ties a difficult knot for him to unravel.

But there is a sparkle in his eyes as he reads of the diminutive PT boats. He once said, "I do not wish to have command of any ship that does not sail fast, for I intend to go in harm's way." He is delighted with the PT boat, for here he finds speed in a small bundle.

In the January 18, 1947, issue of The New York Times, the following story by Harold B. Hinton appeared under the heading, "Congress Studies Merger Proposal."

"WASHINGTON—Surprise, gratification, and relief marked today's discussions on Capitol Hill of President Truman's announcement that the War and Navy Departments had agreed on a formula for the unification of the armed forces."

The eyes of John Paul Jones go wide with horror. He turns white, then red with rage. Imagine the Army and the Navy wearing one uniform. Impulsiveness, his tremendous pride, his dare-devilry, his childish vanity, and his beautifully eloquent and oratorical patriotism."

First With the Flag
With his own hands, he hoisted the first flag of an American naval squadron. At Portsmouth, N. H., July 4, 1777, he raised the first Stars and Stripes ever to fly from the mast of an American man-of-war.

Late on the evening of February 14, 1778, the first formal recognition ever given the United States by a foreign fleet was delivered in the form of a salute to the American flag. Jones received and returned the salutes in Quiberon Bay. On the following day, the flag was transferred to a small privateer. To make certain that no error had been made the preceding evening, he sailed through La Motte Piquet's fleet of battleships to execute a repeat exchange of courtesies.

First in so many things, John Paul Jones does not subscribe to a merger proposal for the army and navy. He can see no reason for such a union, for he does not realize the significance of modern military methods.

Buried Under Common Dump
What does he think of the proposals to bring the bodies of American military dead to the United States?

In an article penned for The Independent, General Horace Porter, at one time an ambassador of the United States to France, said: "A hero, whose fame once covered two continents, lay in a forgotten grave like an obscure outcast relegated to oblivion in a squalid quarter of a distant foreign city." The ground in which he was buried had been used for everything from a common dump pile, where horses and dogs were buried, to occupancy by a contractor for the removal of night soil.

Search For Leadin Coffin

The search for the body of John Paul Jones began in 1899. According to General Porter, rumors indicated that a body buried in a leaden coffin, as was that of Jones, might have been displaced by Revolutionary troops in an endeavor to acquire lead which could be used to supply their arms with ammunition.

That the body of Jones had been buried in a leaden coffin was established by old receipts and letters between friends after the funeral on the 20th of July, 1792. His body had been placed in a leaden coffin so that sea transportation of his remains would be simplified in the event that the United States, which he had served with so much honor, should claim them.

A description of Jones' death on July 18th, 1792, is given in a letter from Colonel Blackdon of North Carolina, to his sister, Mrs. Jennie Taylor, in Scotland.

The letter explained that Jones had grown yellow, his legs had swelled, and the swelling had proceeded upward until, two days prior to his death, he was unable to button his waistcoat. He made his will on the afternoon of July 18, 1792.

"When the will was completed, he walked into his chamber, and laid himself upon his face on the bedside. His feet were on the floor. He was found dead in this position by the Queen's physician who attended him," said the letter.

"I can never renounce the glorious title of a citizen of the United States," said John Paul Jones.

Place of Burial in Paris
This statement is convincing enough, then, to prove that, even after death, John Paul Jones nods his head in the affirmative to the question of whether or not he would prefer to lie in the soil of the land he served and loved. He stands in the chapel of the Naval Academy and firmly asserts that citizenship does not end with death.

It was, then, a proper thing for the people of the United States to bring about the disinterment of the body of the great American naval commander from its resting place in the old graveyard for foreign Protestants in Paris.

As he returns to the comfort of his crypt in the Naval Academy, John Paul Jones recalls the unpleasant days he had spent at the corner of Rue des Ecluses Saint Martin, and Rue de la Grange aux Belles, where he had been buried following an attack of dropsy of the heart on the 18th of July, 1792.

UN COMMISSION GOES TO KONISTA

Athens, July 21 (AP)—The United Nations subcommission investigating Greek border disorders announced today that it planned to go to Konista to inspect the area where guerrilla forces launched their first big attack eight days ago.

A government military leader told the subcommission the guerrillas at Konista were Albanian uniforms and launched the offensive to set up a free government at Konista. Government circles, meanwhile, expressed surprise that the guerrillas who were routed last week by loyalist forces in northwestern Greece had not proclaimed the area a "Communist free state."

"We cannot understand the delay," a foreign ministry spokesman said. "We have been expecting it any day. The only reason probably is because the Communists have not been able to induce any non-Communist leftists to participate in such a government."

"We have information," he said, "that a number of respectable leftists have been contacted, but they declined. The Communists want to camouflage the operation behind some respectable name."

Wool today is cleaned primarily with the use of a specially prepared potash soap.

"Be prepared!" is a good motto for the good old summer-time, when guests are apt to drop in unexpectedly. So here are some delicious dishes you can fix at your leisure and keep in your refrigerator for such emergencies.

ICE DREAM
This chocolate ice cream made with rich WHITE HOUSE EVAPORATED MILK from the A&P is grand to have on hand. Shave 2 squares unsweetened chocolate into top of double boiler. Add 1 cup WHITE HOUSE MILK and 16 whole marshmallows. Cook over boiling water till well blended; cool and add 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Whip 1 cup chilled WHITE HOUSE MILK till stiff; fold into mixture. Pour into cold freezing tray and freeze at coldest setting. When partially frozen, stir well and continue freezing. Serves 5.

SALAD STANDBY
For lunch? Cook an 8-oz. package of A&P's ANN PAGE ELBOW MACARONI (see package directions); drain; chill; add 1 tsp. salt, 2 quartered tomatoes, 1 medium onion (chopped), 1/2 green pepper (chopped), 1 hard-cooked egg, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 head Boston lettuce, pepper and paprika. Toss lightly.

PROSTY FAVORITE
I don't think there's a more refreshing warm weather drink than rich, tangy A&P GRAPE JUICE mixed with an equal quantity of ginger-ale. And this heat beater looks as if it came straight from the North Pole when it's served, well iced, in glasses with frosted rims. To frost, I let the rims stand 1 minute in a saucer containing 1/2" strained lemon juice, then 1 minute in a plate containing 1/4" sifted powdered sugar . . . and, being careful not to jar the sugared rims, store the glasses in my refrigerator till the sugar sets. Inviting as an igloo!

PROBE OF VOTE FRAUD AIMS AT ATTY. GEN. CLARK

Washington, July 21 (AP)—The threat of an all-night session ordered the Senate toward a decision today on vote fraud charges growing out of last year's Democratic primary in Kansas City.

The specific issue, raised by Senator Kem (R-Mo.), is whether the Senate should order a formal investigation into Attorney General Clark's handling of the case.

Kem, who consented reluctantly to having his resolution sidetracked several times last week in favor of other legislation, told a reporter in advance of today's session:

"I will not again allow it to be put aside."

With Saturday's adjournment goal only five days off, Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) cautioned his colleagues to be ready to stay all night if that is necessary to dispose of the question. Wherry as GOP whip is charged with keeping party members in line for votes on major issues.

Gets "Clear Field"
Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican policy committee, promised Kem "a clear field" today.

Taft has accused Democratic senators of staging a "near filibuster" against Kem's resolution, which is aimed at determining whether Clark fully upheld his oath in the conduct of an investigation into alleged irregularities in the August 1946 primary.

That election was the one in which then Rep. Roger C. Slaughter lost his bid for Democratic renomination to Enos Axtell, who ran with President Truman's avowed support, was defeated in the November general election by Rep. Albert Reeves, Jr., a Republican.

The Kansas City Star later turned up affidavits charging widespread buying of votes and other irregularities in the August balloting.

York Priest Dies; Had Served In This County

The Rev. Michael J. O'Flynn, 56, pastor for the past seven years of St. Patrick's Catholic church, York, and former assistant pastor at McSherrystown, died Sunday night in York hospital after suffering a stroke nine days before.

Born January 16, 1891, at Castle Island, County Kerry, Ireland, Father O'Flynn studied at St. Brendan seminary, Killarney; St. Peter's college, Glasgow, Scotland, and the North American college, Rome, Italy, where he received his degree of licentiate in sacred theology. He was ordained to the priesthood May 29, 1915, in the Church of St. John Lateran, Rome, by Cardinal Poinelli.

He was assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg, from February 1917, until the following May, and was pastor of St. Ann's church, Steelton, from November 1, 1923, until May 17, 1940, when he was transferred to St. Patrick's church, York. While in Steelton he established the parochial grade school.

He has served assistant pastorates at McSherrystown church, the Church of the Immaculate Conception, York, and St. Anthony's church, Lancaster.

W. M. Is Removing Switch At Crossing

Track employees of the Western Maryland railroad today began repairs to the railroad crossing on Carlisle street. A switch was recently moved farther east, and these rails will be removed, making two sets of tracks, including the main line across Carlisle street, instead of three.

State Highway employees closed off the street for a block each way of the crossing this morning and erected detour signs at Center Square and Water street. The work is expected to take several days.

Dear Susan Brown

Chapter 23

"All right," returned John. "But I found out this morning that I had made a mistake."

Susan looked at him curiously, but resolved that under no circumstances would she ask, "Why?"

"The thing that puzzles me," John went on, "is how you got away from the house yesterday afternoon without any of us seeing you. That was a fine thing, I must say—you slipping away like a kid who's been caught stealing cookies."

"I didn't slip off—well, not really," she qualified. "I just walked out."

"It's a shame you aren't out at Oceanview instead of cooped up in this two-by-four office. You miss a lot of fun by being so impulsive, Susie."

"Yes," said Susan, unable to conceal the note of regret in her voice. "It must be wonderful on a day like this."

"By the way, Susie," said John, swinging the conversation back to its former level, "where was I when you started on your wild goose chase with Old Man Gloom? If I'd seen you, I would have stopped you. Then it would have been simpler all around. You make things so complicated."

"So I complicate things, do I?" Susan's face registered a mixture of rage and surprise. "That's just fine. And just how do you think you could have stopped me, Mr. Bates?"

"I'd have locked you in your room, so help me Hannah!"

Susan glared at him, and saw that he was just as angry as she was. "But you didn't," she pointed out. "You wouldn't have dared!"

"Oh, wouldn't I?" It was quite clear from John's expression that he was capable of doing that very thing.

"Besides, when I left, you were busy. You'd come from town with the movie projector and were showing Mr. Cranston how to operate it."

"Where was Steve that he didn't do something about it?"

Susan evaded the question. "If you think Steve Geills could have stopped me, you're crazy."

"Anyhow, you shouldn't have walked out like you did. It was a dirty trick of play on Steve and he's a fine guy if ever there was one."

This time she could not refrain from asking just what was the reason for this change of heart regarding their employer. "That's the second time you've said it," she told John. "All right, then, I'll bite. Just what has Steve done that's so wonderful?"

"For one thing," John said, after a moment's hesitation, "he offered to tear up my contract. When I told him, he didn't bat an eyelash. Said he knew I wasn't happy taking pictures of—er—dopes. So I'm quitting pronto. Going overseas to take documentary pictures—the thing I've been wanted to do all the time."

"Well, I like that," Susan flared. "What do you mean, you like that?" John demanded. "Hasn't a fellow got a right to resign from his job?"

"Of course. A girl hasn't, I suppose. What's the difference?" She got up from her chair. "Now if you won't get that box, I will. I'm leaving this place—and now."

He followed her down the corridor and into the storeroom.

"It's like this, Susie," he said above sea level.

presently. "When you make a break, you make it a clean break. Sure," he acknowledged. "I'm running away too, but I'm not running away in the middle of something I've started. I'm seeing the thing through. You don't walk out on a job leaving loose ends dangling. No, you don't do it that way. Not unless you're yellow."

Susan felt the angry tears well up in her eyes. She tried to think of something really devastating to say, but all she could do was stammer:

"I—I can't find a box."

"You don't need a box — not where you're going, sugar."

"I do so need a box! If only I could find one I could lift, I'd crown you, John Bates!"

He went over and put an arm around her. "What do you say we'll all off the dogs, Susie? Let's not fight any more."

"I'm not sore—not really. But I'm not yellow!"

He gave her hand a reassuring pat. "Of course you aren't yellow. I was just kidding. Now let's forget about boxes and get going."

"Get going?" Susan repeated. "What do you mean get going?"

"We're going back to Oceanview to finish our job, of course. Then if you want to resign, it's okay by me, baby. I like you a lot, and all I'm insisting on is that you keep your nose clean."

"Oh, but I can't go back!" wailed Susan. "I just can't! I'd like to finish the job I know you're right about, but I'm just a girl, and I'm terribly ashamed of myself. But I'd just curl up and die if I had to face all those people after I walked out like I did. Why, Steve will think—"

She stopped. The thought of what Steve Geills might think of her was too dreadful to contemplate.

"You don't have to worry," John gave her a reassuring pat on the shoulder as they walked back down the corridor to her office. "I covered for you. I told them you'd been called into town for the night—a heavy date, or something—but you'd be back this morning. Heck, Susie, you see all the trouble you cause by that damned temper of yours?"

"I'm sorry," said Susan, and meant it. "Mind if I tell you you're just about the sweetest person I've ever known?"

"Nope. I don't mind. Sounds sort of good when you say it. Now suppose you get busy and dump all that junk back in the desk. I'll run up to Steve's office and pick up that silly letter of yours, and any other mail he happens to have. I've got the station wagon outside, and we ought to get started."

A few minutes later he came back with Susan's letter of resignation in one hand and several business letters, addressed to Steve, in the other. They made quite a ceremony of destroying Susan's letter.

Polesworth, Eng., July 21 (AP)—At least four persons were killed and 30 injured today when a London-Liverpool express train was derailed near here, 110 miles north of London. A number of passengers were trapped in the derailed coaches and it was feared the death toll might go higher.

Bank's Petition Is Refused By Court

The petition of the First National bank, Gettysburg, asking authority to pay $50 to Carroll Volland, East Berlin, father of Donald Volland, a minor, was refused in court here Saturday. The bank is guardian of the young man's estate. The elder Volland had asked the 50 as reimbursement for expenses he incurred in instituting and perfecting a damage action in behalf of the son.

Donald Volland, while serving in the Navy, was aboard a troop train of the Wabash railroad, enroute from Camp Perry, Va., to California when the train was derailed on January 26, 1946. The East Berlin youth was thrown to the floor and injured. An action in trespass in behalf of Donald Volland was awarded $2,000. After the payment of medical expenses of $25 and attorneys' fees, the balance of $1,308.34 was turned over to the bank as guardian for the youth.

OPTIMISTIC ON WAR, BUT ADDS
QUALIFICATIONS
By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Ernest Bevin, Britain's ever daring foreign secretary, took his reputation as a prophet in his hands at the week-end and told a coal miners' picnic in northern England that there is no danger of another war in this generation so far as he can see. And why should this statesman, whose voice carries around the world, raise the harrowing subject of conflict on the supposedly cheerful occasion of a picnic? Well, because it's a question which never is far from the minds of all thinking people, as you and I well know from the conversations we daily encounter. So Mr. Bevin made his prediction to calm fears, but he was quick to add this important qualification:

Look To Future

"But in every act you perform, you must keep in mind the children of thirty or forty years from now. Not a day passes, not a moment passes in the job in which I am now engaged without my being fully conscious that a wrong decision, wrong judgment or petulant answer may now condemn a generation."

Wise counsel that, for nobody can afford mistakes in these dangerous days. However, that doesn't mean that we are to refuse to face facts, to apply ourselves energetically to laying plans to meet emergencies, and to put those plans into operation forcefully when the emergencies crop up.

It would have been interesting if Mr. Bevin had amplified his forecast. Had he done so I dare say it might have developed several "ifs."

We shall have war if and when some aggressor nation acquires sufficient strength to wage a major conflict and so dares to carry out its aggression in the face of any and all hostile opinion. It strikes me that it might not take a generation for such a hypothetical situation to be created.

Danger In Russia

Still, we do know that the only nation now physically capable of waging a major war of conquest is the United States—and the U.S.A. isn't an aggressor.

The present danger of war of course lies in the continued expansion of aggressive Communism. The world revolution for the spread of that ism is going full tilt, and it will keep going with increasing intensity until it strikes an obstacle which it can't move. Every new country which is absorbed in the Red campaign adds strength to Russia's powerful Communist empire—and all this is gained without a major shooting-war.

Rubber Workers To Ask Wage Raises

Cleveland, July 21 (AP)—The CIO-United Rubber Workers international policy committee has decided to ask the rubber industry's "big four"—Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and Firestone—for another 1947 pay raise.

The committee blamed rising living costs for its decision yesterday to seek more money from "big four," signers of the first wage contract this year among the nation's major producers.

In making that decision, the committee took advantage of a reopening clause in their contract, signed March 22, stipulating that wages could be renegotiated within four months. The action came only two days short of that period.

The rubber workers, said URW President L. S. Buckmaster, want boosts that will (a) meet the rise in living costs between January, 1947, and the time a new agreement is reached, added to (b) "whatever is necessary to equal other wage patterns."

Baltimore, Md., July 21 (AP)—Dr. Robert G. Davis, 88-year-old retired physician who was born in Pittston, Pa., died Saturday—four days after he fractured a hip in a fall. He retired 10 years ago after practicing 50 years in Baltimore.

EXPECT RUSH ON PETITIONS AT CAPITAL TODAY

Harrisburg, July 21 (AP)—Thousands of Republican and Democratic candidates for municipal and judicial posts hurried to get under the wire before the deadline today for filing nomination petitions.

The state elections bureau, which receives nominations for the judiciary—a full 10-year term on the state Superior Court and 66 county judgeships will be filled November 4—looked for an eleventh-hour rush of petitions for the September 9 primaries.

Still awaited were the petitions of Judge John S. Fine, of Nanticoke recently named to the Superior Court by Gov. James H. Duff to succeed Judge Thomas J. Baldridge, who resigned, for the Republican nomination.

Judge Fine, who assumed his seat on the high tribunal last week, already has the backing of GOP organization leaders for the full term, starting in January, 1948. On the Democratic side, only the name of Judge Ivan J. McKendrick, of Ebensburg, now president judge of the Cambria county common pleas court, has been mentioned as an aspirant for the party's nomination for the appellate court.

Philadelphia To Elect Mayor
Mayors will be elected this year in 29 cities, including Philadelphia where the incumbent Bernard Samuel is running for re-election on the Republican ticket, and Harrisburg, where incumbent Howard E. Milliken failed to get the approval of the Republican organization for a third term.

There will be 36 common pleas, eight orphans court, two Philadelphia municipal and 14 associate judges elected this fall, in addition to the county judges and one state Superior Court judge.

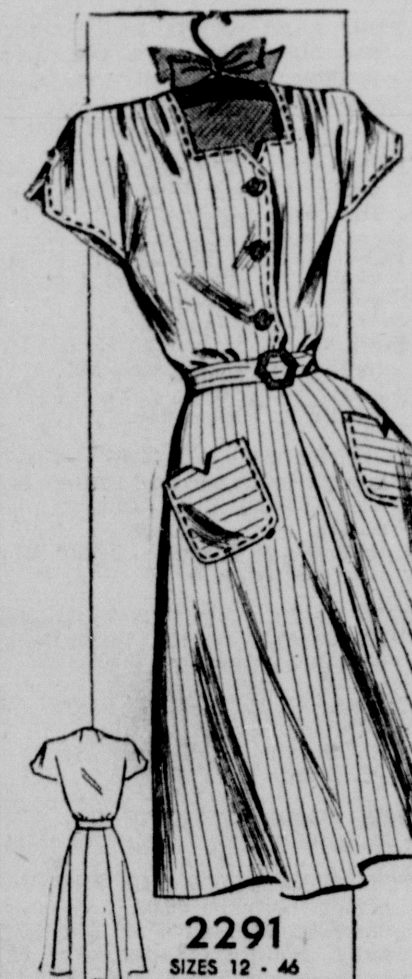

One contest at the September 9 primary that holds more than passing interest is a special election to fill a Congressional vacancy caused by the death of Rep. Charles L. Gerlach, of Allentown. The election will be held in the Bucks-Lehigh district, to fill Gerlach's unexpired term.

Identify Four Dead In Jap War Prison

Washington, July 21 (AP)—Four Pennsylvanians have been positively identified as being among the 204 additional American soldiers who died while confined to a Jap prison camp in the Philippines, the War department says.

Previously listed as unknowns, the War department said the Pennsylvanians are S-Sgt. William J. Mackman, Williamsburg; Pfc. Charles J. Sincosky, Whitney; and Pts. George W. Umbaugh and Nicholas R. Zubal, both of Johnstown.

The soldiers were among the 1,600 prisoners buried in the Camp O'Donnell prisoner of war cemetery on Luzon, the War department said. All remains have been removed and reburied in the U. S. Armed Forces cemetery at Manila.

This picture made from the town of Yoshiura, Japan, on the other side of the mountain north of Hiroshima, shows the smoke rising from the explosion of the atomic bomb two years ago. It was picked up from an Australian engineer at Kure, Japan. Note the radiation spots on the negative caused by the explosion of the bomb, almost ruining the film. So far as is known, this picture has never before been released in the United States. (AP Wirephoto)
